Huxman retires from KDOT

Kim Huxman, Land Surveyor for the Kansas Department of Transportation's Bureau of Design, is retiring Jan. 19, 2013, after more than 12 years of service to the State of Kansas.

Huxman began at KDOT in 1980, then moved to the private sector. He returned to the agency in 2002 where he has served as a Survey Crew Chief on projects across the state.

He has enjoyed being a part of many interesting surveys, such as finding two land boundary corner monuments set by original Government Land Office surveyors in 1855 when his crew was surveying along U.S. 75 near the Kansas-Nebraska state line in 2008.

Huxman and his wife, Mary, have five children and five grandchildren, who they plan to spend lots of time with during retirement. The couple resides in Hays.
