Flerlage retires from KDOT

Daniel Flerlage, Engineering Technician Senior for the Kansas Department of Transportation (KDOT), is retiring on Dec. 15 after 28 years of service to the state of Kansas.

Flerlage started at KDOT in 1989 as an Engineering Technician at the Wamego Area Office and was an Inspector on road and bridge projects. He also served as the Survey party chief. He was promoted to an Engineering Technician Senior in 1999 while working in the field, then in 2013 he was selected as the Office Coordinator at the Area office. In addition, he served as the Local Public Authority (LPA) Coordinator on city and county projects.

He has two children, Liz Bartels and Josh Flerlage, and resides near Belvue. During his retirement, Flerlage plans to make his fifth baby quilt for his grandson who is due next spring. He has made four other quilts for his granddaughters, Brook, Jenna, Amber and Cheyenne. He enjoys braiding to make belts and horse bridles and plans to write his autobiography.
