Cadue selected as KDOT's Chief for Public Information

Cheryl Cadue has joined the Kansas Department of Transportation as its Bureau Chief for Public Information.

Cadue began her public service as a public information officer with the Kansas Department of Corrections, followed by a role as the digital media producer for the Kansas Department of Administration. Most recently, she served as public information officer for the District Attorney's Office in Douglas County.

A graduate of the University of Kansas' School of Journalism and Mass Communications, Cadue worked as a newspaper reporter and then later as a program manager for public education with the American Indian College Fund, where she helped to expand educational opportunities for Native American students. In her new role at KDOT, Cadue will continue with her commitment to public service.

"I am excited to continue my public service journey with an organization that has such a significant impact on the lives of Kansans," Cadue said.
