

En ROUTE TO KDOT

Friday, May 13, 2022

Drive Safe Sedgwick media event kicks off safety campaign in Wichita

“Buckling up costs you nothing, not buckling up could cost you everything. Buckle up for every trip, every time,” said Chris Bortz, Assistant Bureau Chief of Transportation Safety. Bortz was one of many speakers at the Drive Safe Sedgwick safety campaign media event, which took place on Wednesday. Click here to learn more and watch a highlight video here.

Learn about the IKE Program

The KDOT intranet has been updated to include tools and resources that provide information on the delivery of the IKE Program. Project cost estimates, schedule, status and additional data can be accessed through an interactive dashboard on the updated site.

This dashboard can sort and search through the projects by district, program category, work phase, programmed fiscal year and more. A list of PMC-led projects and the contact information for their respective project managers is also provided.

The IKE public website – kdotike.org – has a searchable map that includes information on all IKE projects.

A screenshot of a website dashboard titled "DELIVERING THE IKE PROGRAM". It features three main sections: 1. "Know where to direct questions and see a list of PMC-managed projects" with a document icon. 2. "Learn all about the IKE program and get the latest updates with a link to the IKE website" with a computer monitor icon. 3. "Access program and project data through an interactive dashboard" with a computer monitor icon. At the bottom, it says "IKE Program Information".

Kansas News

Local Earhart experts to make transatlantic trek to Ireland

Cities across Kansas light up bridges for Ukraine

National News

Biden Administration releases permitting action plan to accelerate, deliver infrastructure projects